Access: Travel on U.S. Highway 34 up Big Thompson Canyon west of Loveland to Drake. Turn right on County Road 43, Glen Haven Road, and continue for 6 miles to Dunraven Glade Road. Turn right and travel 3 miles to the trailhead parking lot at the end of the road. Access can be gained to Miller Fork Trail from the Dunraven Trailhead via the Bulwark Ridge Trail (#928-1) and the Indian Trail (#927). Hikers from the north on Donner Pass Trail (#926) can meet the Miller Fork Trail at a junction along Miller Fork Creek or farther north via the Donner Cutoff Trail (#926-1).

Trail Information: From the Dunraven Trailhead, the Bulwark Ridge Trail (#928-1) leads up to a junction with the Indian Trail (#927) which then connects to Miller Fork. The Miller Fork Trail from Miller Fork Road begins through a mile-long, 10-foot wide R-O-W easement following Miller Fork Creek through private land before meeting the southern end of Donner Pass Trail, but there is no parking on Miller Fork Road. Miller Fork Trail continues to follow the creek, intersects with the Indian and the Donner Cutoff Trails, and then often becomes obscure and difficult to follow before ending at the site of an old sawmill.
